Award Winners

LeClair Award and Symanitz Award

Minneapolis, MN: Rachel Jungwirth of Principal Life was awarded the LeClair Award at the annual MN Association of Health Underwriters (MAHU) Convention. Alycia Riedl of Willis Towers Watson was awarded the Symanitz Award at the 2016 MAHU Convention.

The Symanitz Award is given to a member for outstanding leadership and dedication to the health industry, support of community activities and lifetime of quality professional sales. Alycia Riedl was awarded the Symanitz Award for her past, present & future volunteer leadership she has given to the local Minnesota chapter of the National Association of Health Underwriters (NAHU). Alycia has been a board member and President of MAHU and now Vice President for the Regional NAHU chapter.

The David LeClair award was established to recognize and encourage newer MAHU members who have shown strong leadership qualities and service to the health insurance industry and in various community activities. Rachel Jungwirth was awarded the LeClair Award for her active volunteering for the last couple of years on the Professional Development Committee of MAHU and her continued professional representation of the health insurance industry.

MAHU would like to thank Rachel and Alycia for their continued support and would ask the Health Insurance Industry to congratulate these two professional health insurance industry leaders.
